	...the PALYNZIQ Risk Evaluation and Mitigation Strategy (REMS) Program...
	...This program makes sure you know about treatment risks

Shapes start to transition off screen.	...and how to manage them.
Shapes continue to transition off screen.
Shapes resolve into next scene.
Animated icons of doctor and patient appear.	The PALYNZIQ REMS Program...
Doctor and patient speech bubbles appear to indicate they're talking.	...educates patients and doctors about the risks associated with PALYNZIQ. Also, PALYNZIQ is available only from pharmacies that participate in the PALYNZIQ REMS Program.
Shapes transition.
Doctor and patient icons talk with each other, with the text "Anaphylaxis" in the bubble between them.	The most important risk of PALYNZIQ is a severe allergic reaction called anaphylaxis, that may be life threatening.

Transitional element begins to reveal form of auto-injectable epinephrine.
Auto-injectable epinephrine appears and text bubble of “Auto-Injectable Epinephrine” appears above.	That is why your doctor will also prescribe auto-injectable epinephrine and teach you how and when to use it.
Shapes transition to iPad/tablet.	You may experience anaphylaxis soon after you inject a dose of PALYNZIQ...
“Symptoms include” bubble appears and body diagram appears on screen.	...and it can occur at any time during your treatment with PALYNZIQ. Common symptoms include:
Tablet rotates to landscape view.

Shapes transition into the next scene.
One of the cloud shapes transforms into auto-injectable epinephrine.	Use auto-injectable epinephrine as directed by your doctor.
Shapes transition to doctor and patient, with questions appearing in the bubble above them as called out by voice-over.	If you have any questions about...
	...PALYNZIQ...
	...or what to do if you have had a severe allergic reaction...

	...anaphylaxis, reach out to your doctor.
Shapes resolve to show a doctor with a bubble that says "Prescription" above him. Next to him, a simple prescription pad builds.	Before receiving a PALYNZIQ prescription, you and your doctor will discuss the risk of anaphylaxis, and the need to carry auto-injectable epinephrine with you at all times. Your doctor will give you a prescription for auto-injectable epinephrine that you need to have filled.
The prescription pad transforms into the patient guide, with a "Patient guide" text bubble above.	You need to read the Patient Guide. It will tell you more about PALYNZIQ and about the most serious risks associated with it.
Shapes transition.	You will also learn more about what to expect when enrolled in the PALYNZIQ REMS Program.
Enrollment form builds onto screen.	Then you and your doctor will...
Doctor and patient sign the form.	...complete and sign the enrollment form.
Circular shapes transition to next environment.

	which your doctor...
Enrollment form morphs into a paper airplane.	...will send to the REMS Program Coordinating Center and give you a copy to take home.
The paper airplane files into mailbox...
...And morphs into phone
Shapes form into a phone with the PALYNZIQ REMS calling.	A representative from the PALYNZIQ REMS will contact you to get you started.
Shapes resolve into a simple pharmacy icon	A pharmacy that participates in the PALYNZIQ REMS Program will schedule a shipment of your medicine right to your home.
Shapes transition	The pharmacy will verify that you have filled your prescription for auto-injectable epinephrine, and that you and your doctor are enrolled in the PALYNZIQ REMS Program.
Shapes assemble to form a delivery truck.	...and then send you your PALYNZIQ medicine.

Graphic treatment connecting delivery to patient.
Background shapes transition to next scene.
Wallet card icon resolves into frame.	You will also receive a wallet card that describes symptoms that you (or your caregiver), or your observer, should know that will require you to go to the emergency room right away.
Wallet card comes up, and the card appears above it.	Carry this card with you at all times during treatment with PALYNZIQ. Show this card to all of your doctors even if they are not your phenylketonuria (PKU) doctor.
The card slides downward into the wallet.
Shield icon locks card into place.
The patient grabs the wallet and card to end the animation.
